

Sports cars are running at the Skope Classic meeting (Mike Pero Motorsport Park) this weekend in the Formula Open class. Richard Kelly is driving his Juno, Robert Hulme has reverted to his Nemesis, Tim Edgell is taking a change from V8s to drive a Radical and Gerald Duncan is driving his newly restored SID Mk2 which has a long history of sports car racing in New Zealand.

Sports Cars enjoyed some great racing at the Skope Classic.

John Mines drove his JRM 2 in the Formula Libre races and scored a couple of third places. Tim Edgell took a break from V8s to put in an outstanding drive in the latest Radical SR3XX from Radical NZ, where he was very competitive.

Richard Kelly had to familiarise himself with the track as the last time he raced there was some twenty years ago. He provided some very entertaining and close racing with Tim, to lead him across the finish line in a couple of races.

Robert Hulme had a troubled weekend despite being able to set similar lap times to Richard. Nevertheless, in race 3, he enjoyed a great race through the field after slipping back a couple of places on the first lap.

Next weekend the racing moves to South Canterbury Hydraulics Southern Classic, Levels raceway, Timaru.
